DRIFTWOOD

POOLS

We're Matt & Missy — the husband-and-wife team behind Driftwood.

What started with a love of building beautiful pools has grown into something much bigger for us. We want to create outdoor spaces that feel considered from the very beginning — where the pool, architecture, materials and landscape all work together.

Matt brings more than 20 years of experience in concrete pool construction, while Missy works across the design and creative side of each project with a background in architecture. Together, we take our pools from the first ideas and drawings right through to construction and the final details.

We're a small team by choice. We'd rather take on fewer projects, be genuinely involved in each one and build something we're proud to put the Driftwood name on.

WHAT YOU CAN EXPECT FROM US

Clear Communication

Open, straightforward communication throughout your project, with clear expectations and a team that keeps you informed along the way.

Considered Craftsmanship

From the structure through to the smallest finishing details, we approach every stage with care, precision and pride in the end result.

Transparency

Clear scopes, selections and costs mean you understand what's included and can make informed decisions throughout the process.

Built for the Long Term

We prioritise quality construction, proven methods and considered material choices to create pools that perform beautifully for years to come.

Personal Service

As a boutique, family-run business, we take on a considered number of projects so we can remain closely involved from the first conversation through to handover.
